TIELDS TO A COLLEGE CREW. University of Pean yivania Carries Of the Eight-cared Honors at the Hariem Re-gatta, Defeating the Leoni Champtone.

Two sensational features enlivened the thirtieth annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta Association, which was held over the Harlem River course yesterday. The hitherto unde-feated senior eight of the First Bohemian Boat Club, winner of the national championship last rear, were beaten by the 'Varsity eight of the University of Pennsylvania, and the picked twelve oar-cutter crew of the First Naval Battalion of this city, was totally distanced by a heretofore unknown crew from the New-port, Rhode Island, Torpedo Company. The defeat of the Bohemians was more or less expected, as it was not thought Flis Ward, the Pennsylvanian coach, would bring over a crew from Philadelphia unless he counted them as winners; and as Ward was for two years the coach of the Bohemians he was well informed as to the exact extent of their ability. But the defeat of the local paval reserve crew was not on the cards at all, and as almost the entire battalion of amateur tars, with their female friends and guests galore, were gathered in a gayly decorated steamer and a half dozen cutters, at the finish line, in anticipation of victory, the defeat was all the

The arrangements for the regatta were much better than ever before, and the races were run off as planned with remarkable promptness and smoothness. From noon to half past six there was an unbroken series of races, three the first hour and one every half hour thereafter. There was no delay with any race, and some of them were started before the time because the contestants were ready and waiting. Another, feature of the regatta was its freedom from accidents. Only two fouls occurred during the entire day. The first was when a barge from the Dauntless Rowing Club fouled a crew from the Excelsior B. C. of Paterson, This, however, was due to the blundering carelessness of a youthful and thexperienced member of the club, who, in the absence of the captain, and in violation of the rules, took out a party boat on the river, and would not otherwise have happened.

The second case was furnished by George Lee, the professional oarsman, who was so interested in watching the leaders of a race that he failed to get out of the way of one of the tail enders. The usual holiday crowds lined the wharves and banks of the river and stood upon the bridges along the route. Probably over 5,000 persons witnessed the regatta. Summary: Junior Single Shells-First heat won by Harry X. Vought, Atlanta B. C.; Leon Mayer, Lone Star R. C., second; C. J. O'Connell, Sewannaka B. C., Brooklyn, third; Willard T. De Witt, Hudson B. This was the first real race of the day, and was one of the beet. The Lone Star crew had a little the best of the start, but soon drooped behind. The Nonparells quickly drew shead, and at the quarter mile the order wis. Nonparell, Union, Nasaau, and Lone Star. The Unions then began to pick up, and was even with the leader at the half mile. Passing the Union house a tremendous burst of applause incited them to a burst of speed which gave them a slight lead, which the Nonparells could not overcome.

The Bohemians took a slight lead at the start and held it to the half, close pressed by the Metropolitan crew. Here the latter drew shead a little, but did not keep it. The Bohemians bad speed in reserve, and, spurting on the last quarter, won by s-length.

The Pennsylvania 'Varsity crew took the lead at the start, rowing a strong and steady stroke, 198 to the minute, and were uever headed. The New Yorks had second place at the start, but lost it at the quarter to the Bohemians, and dropped to third place, the Fennsylvania freehman crew bringing up the rear. All were bunched abreast, with a difference of less than half a length between the first and the last crews.

At the half mile the New Yorks, who were rowling a very steady stroke, began to pick up and moved up to second place again, less than half a length behind the leaders. For a while it looked as if they would overtake them, but the Title Bear Clab of Neward, Clafford Brown bow. Quakers quickened their stroke and crossed the line a length shead of the New Yorkers. The Pennsylvania freshmen crew was third, the Bohemians having dropped to the rear soon after the half mile.

The New York crew was totally outclassed and the race was won in the first eighth mile. The conswain of the Newport crew was as good as another carsuman in his boat. Every ounce of his weight was thrown inte every stroke of his crew, and they fairly walked away from the astoniahed New Yorkers. At the first eighth of a mile the visitors were a length shead, at the quarter it was two lengths, and the rest of the race was a procession, the Rhode island crew winning by four or five lengths. The crowd of duck-suited amateur tars of the local force and their female friends who were gathered at the finish were too dazed to utter a sound until the winning boat had crossed the ling.

The Newport crew rowed a short, snappy stroke, 40 to the minute. The New York crew rowed a trifle longer stroke, 38 to the minute. Junior Four-oard Shella-Won by the Atlantic R. C. of Rotoken, N. This race brought out the winners and second men from the two trial heate. It was easy for Mackey, who won by half a dozen lengths. He is a very clever sculler, but very nervous, lacking confidence. Vought and Multhearn of the Atalanta B. C. rowed a close race for second place, the former winning.

This race was a fitting finish to the day's sport. The two crews were in sharp contrast, the collegians young and tail, for the most part blond, with large developed muscles: their opponents smaller and mostly dark, older, with muscles small, but hard and wiry. They seemed well matched, and so it proved, for the race was a seesaw, with a slight advantage first on one side, and then on the other from the start, to the finish of the mile course.

The Bohemians had a little the best of the start, and kept it to the half mile. They rowed 40 strokes to the minute and the Pennsylvania crew rowed 39. The Bohemians rewed very steadily at the start, but soon began to pull unversely, and their coxswain had great difficulty in keeping them on the course. The steering of the Pennsylvania crew, on the other hand, was perfect. At the half-mile the collegians began to gain, at three-quarters they had a decided lead. They crossed the line about half a length abead of their adversaries.

Each member of a winning crew received a gold medal and his club received a banner. The challenge prizes of the association were won as follows:

ROWING ON THE PASSAIC.

The Baltimore A. C.'s Eight Defeat the Crack Institutes.

The Passalo River Amateur Rowing Association held its annual regatta on the Passaic River yesterday. The final heat of the junior singles had to be rowed twice, owing to the contestants being stopped by a person who attempted to row a boat across the river in front of them. This was the only thing to mar the sport. The races began in the morning and were not finished un-til sundown. PLAINFIELD, May 30,-The local cycling seaeon was opened by the Crescent Wheelmen's track races this afternoon, which 7,000 persons attended. The racing was mostly tame, al-though two exciting finishes developed in the handleaps, one a dead heat and the other won by inches. Several heats and one final were so far behind time limits that the referee declared these events off. A quarter-mile exhibition race was ridden by E. T.
